

Please don't allow this. The effect will only give access to the law abiding or the absurdly stupid criminal. Anyone using email, or other Internet services for communicating, will use super strong encryption. Maybe the government has a backdoor into AES, but what about public technologies, like Blowfish? This is a stepping stone into justifying more intrusion, and ultimately, restriction of the freedom of exchange that exists via the Internet.